The Week at a Glance

The program begins on Sunday. During the opening ceremony, participants will be introduced to the advancement and posting of the colors, which will occur daily at ALA Tar Heel Girls State. The opening ceremony will also include words of welcome from local dignitaries, introduction of the staff, and our participants being sworn in as citizens of ALA Tar Heel Girls State. Throughout the week, citizens will hear from state and local government leaders as they reflect on their pathway to leadership. All speakers take time to answer questions from citizens.

Citizens will begin by nominating and electing candidates for city government. Upon arrival, each participant is assigned to a city, as well as a political party. City offices in which citizens may be elected include City Mayor and City Recreation Chair. State government offices include governor, lieutenant governor, secretary of state, attorney general, speaker of the House of Representatives, etc. There are many other offices not listed, but all nominations for offices are taken by self-nomination only. A citizen must nominate herself for the office she wishes to pursue.

After our city government is established and our General Assembly is formed, citizens will have the opportunity to act as a senator, representative, or lobbyist. Citizens will have the opportunity to do research for drafting and debating bills.

During downtime, citizens may be able to participate in sports (including tennis, swimming, etc.) depending on the availability on campus, our talent show, and other team building games. Citizens should also bring any necessary equipment to participate in these activities, including swimwear, tennis racquets, dance costumes, instruments and sheet music, etc.

Endorsement by an American Legion Auxiliary Unit

Tar Heel Girls State is one of the many programs sponsored by the American Legion Auxiliary Department of North Carolina. While not all Units are able to pay the $400 application fee for participants, American Legion Auxiliary Units must endorse and approve the selection of all participants to this program.
